

Tamara Ellison Speaker Bio

Tamara Ellison is a prominent motivational speaker, author, entrepreneur, and highly sought-after resource in Girl Empowerment for Schools, nonprofits and community leaders from all areas of society desiring to impact future generations. Tamara Ellison is the Founder of Empowered to Flourish, a girl empowerment program design to equip girls ages 5 through 17 with the tools to thrive and flourish despite their environment and background.

the How!

Empowered to Flourish conducts workshops, staff training, and books focused on cultivating confidence, healthy self-image, confronting peer pressures and stereotypes, develop skills needed to increase academic, and the courage to challenge the status quo.

the Why?

As a young girl, Tamara's passion was helping others. At the age of 16, Tamara became a teen parent and had to confront the odds stacked against her. Once she reached her goals, she knew it was time to empower others. Tamara wanted to empower those whom society had silenced their voice and encourage them to unearth the goldmine within. So she founded Empower to Flourish to birth a movement empowering girls around the world.

Partnerships:

The Empowered to Flourish program has served the students of San Bernardino Unified School District, Colton Joint Unified School District, Moreno Valley Unified School District. Tamara has been a keynote speaker, presenter, or motivator for the City of Ontario Recreation & Community Services Department, and Girls Scouts of San Geronio Council.

Acknowledgments:

Tamara Ellison has been awarded and recognized by Congress Women Norma Reyes, Senator Connie Levy, and Assembly Women Eloise Gomez Reyes for her service in the community.
